

Abstract

A portable computer with a flat panel display is provided. The portable computer includes a base and a cover. Users input data selectively by an input device or through a flat panel display. The base includes a first portion and a second portion. The second portion has a flat panel display with handwriting and touching input functions. Moreover, the cover is pivotally connected to the base for protecting the base and can rotate to the back of the base. The cover includes the input device for inputting data to a computer system of the base.